

Dave Green

Time Management Expert, Leadership Consultant, and Speaker

Topics

Generations and Diversity in the Workplace

Leadership and Management

Creating a Culture of Execution

Productivity

Dave Green helps clients focus on and execute high payoff activities through strategic planning, goal alignment, and time management.

Whether he is helping individuals plan their time or helping organizations prioritize their goals for the fiscal year, Dave Green's approach is always results-oriented. He has designed and delivered hundreds of programs for executives, managers, and professionals aimed toward helping them improve their productivity.

Dave is a frequent speaker at national conferences and conventions including the American Society for Training and Development (ASTD) and Training Magazine's "Best of America" Conference. He has been interviewed by CNN, National Public Radio (NPR), and local television and radio programs. He served on the California Governor's Task Force for Training and Development.

Dave's clients represent many Fortune 500 and 100 organizations including those in technology, energy, biotech and science, finance, healthcare, and government. He has worked overseas, and clients value the perspective he brings to a business climate that grows more global every day.

Before joining FranklinCovey in 1996, Dave held two senior management positions with the largest training and consulting organization in Europe. After he helped them successfully launch and grow their North American operations, he started his own practice in the San Francisco Bay area. Dave is now a senior consultant and practice leader at FranklinCovey, where he is Director of Online Delivery and world class webinar trainer.

He received FranklinCovey's Summit Award in 2005 and is also a member of the President's Club, where he is recognized as one of the organization's highest achievers.

Accomplishments

- B.A., University of California Berkeley
- Member, California Governor's Task Force for Training and Development
- Speaker at ASTD and Training Magazine conferences
- FranklinCovey President's Club
- FranklinCovey's Summit Award
- Director of Online Delivery, FranklinCovey

To schedule Dave Green
Call 1-888-554-1776